SANTA CRUZ COUNTY MINES.

The building of the railroad from Tucson to Calabasas has brought this mineral country again to notice. Most all the mines there are now only four to six miles from Chaves station on the new road. Anthony O'Donnell and his brother in law James Sheehy own a large group of lead silver bearing veins in the devil's cache country and are working them right along, shipping their ore to El Paso and receiving a handsome profit. Ex-United States Marshal Ben Daniels owns a large group near the prong of the mountain and the Elephants Head Mining Company has been incorporated and has taken over the group. Considerable work has already been done and is continued with several men at work. Some ore has been shipped and arrangements are under way to erect a concentrator on the ground. In the Mineral Hill country John Allen and others have located a large number of claims and are at work on them. There are others in this region who have taken up claims and are also at work on them.

In the southern part of the Tyndal district the Ivanhoe group of mines under the management of James Johnson, who is the largest owner of stock in the company which has taken over the group. This property has been extensively developed and there are thousands of tons of good grade of ore in sight and on the dumps. Over ten thousand dollars, net, has been received by the company on ore shipped. The company are taking steps for the erection of reduction works at the mines as they have wood and water in abundance.

Over in the Wrightson district, adjoining the Tyndal on its east side, there are a few men at work on the Mansfield and Anaconda groups, while our old friends Clark and Petersen are quietly developing their American boy group and making occasional shipments of ore.

The World's Fair, the 3 R's and a few other mines have some men at work and shipments of ore are made quite frequently. The 4 metals group in the Mowry district keeps several men at work developing and we learn that work on the Old Mowry property will be resumed very soon.—Miner.
